

Battle of the Bones

Science Game: skeletal system

Review the major bones of the body with this fun game. Give each team a copy of the bone patterns (see print link) to cut out and assemble as a human skeleton. Next, call out the name of a bone. Have a member from each team find that bone in its skeleton and point it out to you. Award a point to the first student who points out the correct bone. Continue in this manner, having team members take turns finding the bones. The team with the most points when all bones have been identified wins.
